We are one snow storm nearer spring.

Will the process-server ever catch up with Jawn D?

The snow shovel was taken from its summer quarters again today.

A criminal named Freed has just been caught in Chicago. He was freed up to the time the officer got hold of him.

Alderman Thurston of ward four is on the road to become the "watchdog of the treasury."

If it is difficult to account for that "feeling of unrest" in Montpelier, possibly Sheriff Tracey might help out the seeker for knowledge.

John Mitchell gently insinuates that the operators do not know what they are talking about. But by all means they should confer. If the consumers were only in a position to do so, they would say, you must confer. But the poor consumer has to fold his hands and wait.

RAISING SALARIES.

Commenting on what it calls "the universal salary raise," the New York Globe yesterday had this to say: "It is the era of agitation for universal public salary raising. It has been conclusively established that the President should have $100,000 and a special train, with steam always up, on the nearest siding; that a member of the cabinet should have at least $25,000 and an entertainment allowance; and members of Congress $10,000. Our ministers abroad demand residences. According to irrefutable showings, our teachers receive most niggardly stipends, our policemen and our firemen are wearing their lives out for pittance, while the 'whitewings,' who fight daily battles with the germ armies, should be compensated for the risk of tuberculosis by the certainty of pensions. Our army officers call attention to the fact that their allowances have not been increased for thirty-five years and impetuous captains write pitiful letters to the press, saying that $2,800 a year is not enough. Even across 'the water members of Parliament show astuteness at serving for nothing at all year, and there is talk of opening soup kitchens for the succor of the benighted kerry."

Allowing for a little exaggeration of language, the contemporary is right. The seeds of the clamor are felt in the individual pocketbook, to the betterment of a few only. The Globe further adds: "The average annual income of the 18,000,000 adult males in these United States is about $330, or less than $10,000,000,000 for all. Of this sum approximately $2,000,000,000, or 20 per cent, now goes for governmental expenditures of all kinds—national, state and municipal. The City of New York, counting bond issues, is spending more than $150,000,000, or nearly $40 for every man, woman and child, or $200 for each family."

Another evidence of the confidence of the public in this Bank is the steady growth of business since organization twelve years ago, as shown by the following

SPRING

What a comfort and relief to step from the long-skirted Overcoat to the new Spring Top Coat! This Coat seems as much a part of Spring as the buds and flowers. Here it is, perfect in every detail—long enough to cover the long sack, short enough to give the legs freedom, stylish enough to suit the most exacting. Top Coats $6.00 to $35.00. Rain Coats $10.00 to $40.00.

ity of five. No community in the world subtracts as large a percentage for governmental purposes. Yet the demand is for more—ever for more—and the likelihood is that it will be yielded to, even though it is known that every dollar added to the government expense means a dollar less to the people at large."

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Other Side of It.

"Why, young man," said the stern parent, "you certainly don't think I would be foolish enough to let a penniless youth like you marry my daughter, do you?"

"Well, it's up to you," rejoined the poor but nifty youngster. "It's a cinch that no rich young man would marry a girl as homely as she is."—Chicago News.

Considerate.

Stranger—How long since you made an arrest, constable?

Constable Eli Medder—Quite a considerable spell. I'm going a little slow 'bout haulin' 'em in just now. We haven't got no place to put 'em 'ceptin' Cy Tedder's chicken coop—an' Cy's got a settin' hen on.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE OLD STORY.

If the hero of the novel only knew that ere the end
He would have the villain working as his slave,
And through peril safely wadin', was to win the lovely maiden,
What a lot of needless worry it would save!

If we could take the heroine and whisper in her ear:
"Come, dearie, give the worthy Paul his rights,
For the fascinating stranger means you unsuspected danger!"
Our remarks would save her many sleepless nights.

If the villain could but know that, though he prospered for a while,
He was sure to be a loser in the strife;
If he knew the hero's muscles were invincible at tussles,
I am bound to think he'd lead a better life.

If the novelist suspected that his time-worn little tale
Seemed to some of us remarkably like rot,
If opine his cerebellum might bestir his brains and tell 'em
They might well evolve a little newer plot.

ELECTRIC ROAD EXTENSION.

Correspondent Thinks That There Is a Fine Opportunity.

Editor Times: There is always an epoch marking era in the progress of any enterprise and it remains for the promoters of such an enterprise to recognize and take advantage of that.

Today, not tomorrow is the opportunity which if the executive of the electric railroad will only seize by the forelock they can hold to their advantage but if they fail to realize their opportunities they may never have the same again not in years, perhaps never. The chance for the construction of an electric road through South Barre, Granville, Westerville, East Barre and possibly around by Wheaton's that will pay large dividends is, we think, no frenzied fancy, but likely to prove an ideal fact.

The railroad accommodations to these villages is well known and much to be deplored and if the electric road officials should construct a road and carry light freight even, they would receive a large patronage.

Many citizens of Barre and Montpelier as well as visitors from other places within and outside of the state would also be an advertisement to the granite quarries to which Barre owes its existence.

We hope if the executive of the electric road will be actuated by no desire for the development of Barre and vicinity, they will realize that it will materially benefit them financially should they extend their road. Any large city has generally grown by branching out in suburbs and finally solidifying into one large trunk and this we believe ought to be the desire of Barre to have the granite industry grow where and how it will, so long as it grows to the advantage and benefit of Barre proper.

We hope to create by these remarks a discussion, at least, as to the possibility, probability or feasibility of such an enterprise.

AN OBSERVER.

VALUABLE CATTLE BURNED.

Charles Hemenway's Barn in Hartland Destroyed by Fire.

Woodstock, March 20.—Seventeen head of cattle and six swine were burned in a fire which destroyed Charles Hemenway's barn in Hartland Sunday night. Mr. Hemenway had left the barn only about half an hour before the fire started. The flames enveloped the building in a few minutes, but the horses and sheep were saved and a wagon or two, the loss including hay, tools and wagons.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Mr. Hemenway's house is separated from the barn only by a driveway. There was help on hand at once, but several neighbors reached the place none too soon to save the dwelling. The snow-covered roof and direction of the wind doubtless favored the fire fighters. The loss is from $1,500 to $2,000, with about $500 insurance. There was some fine stock among the cattle destroyed.

PAY DAY

When pay day comes don't fail to set aside some part of your wages and deposit the amount in the Granite Savings Bank and Trust Company. One reason why so many people fail to save is that no definite plan is ever adopted. If you will follow our suggestion we feel sure your only regret will be that you did not begin sooner. HOW PROCTOR BLOCKED RETRENCHMENT AND RE-ORGANIZATION IN 1900.

The statement is made that there is no "patent" on the proposition to reduce state expenses. True enough. The process is simple. Any one can do it. It's a plain business matter.

WHO IS TRYING TO HELP THINGS?

When was any definite move made toward bettering conditions?

What is Mr. Proctor's record on Retrenchment and Re organization?

In 1900 Senator Percival W. Clement of Rutland introduced a resolution that provided for a joint committee of three senators and four representatives to "inquire into the methods of accounting now in use and into the administration of the financial and business affairs of the State with a view to ascertain if increased efficiency cannot be obtained therein and the STATE EXPENSES BE REDUCED THEREBY."

Senators Clement, Dunnett of Caledonia county and Cudworth of Windham county and Representatives Waterman of Brattleboro, Hale of Lunenburg, McWhorter of Barre and Nay of Jericho were appointed a special committee and reported S. 157, an act to SYSTEMATIZE STATE FINANCES AND REDUCE STATE EXPENSES.

This bill provided that the Governor, Board of Directors of the State Prison and House of Correction, Supervisors of the Insane and Trustees of the Vermont State Hospital for the Insane and the Sergeant at arms should be constituted a BOARD FOR THE GENERAL OVERSIGHT OF THE FINANCES OF State institutions. They were to purchase supplies, let contracts and generally oversee state finances.

It provided for an improved system of keeping state accounts, monthly reports and a system of checking expenditures. It required municipal judges, justices, town and city treasurers to show their accounts to the auditor when requested and instituted a system of checks on the fines, fees, bail forfeitures and general business of minor courts.

This bill PASSED THE SENATE but struck a snag when it reached the desk of Speaker FLETCHER D. PROCTOR of the House, who WAS OPPOSED TO IT and the bill was refused a third reading.

Truly, no one has any "patent" on the Retrenchment idea, but some men attempt things; others use their official position to prevent them.

ENERGY

Nearly everybody feels a lack of energy in the Spring. This languid feeling is due to disordered blood and debilitated nerves. Our Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will give you new life and energy after you have taken only a few doses. It stimulates the appetite, affords material for nervous energy and, by increasing nutrition, increases brain and muscular power. It's a splendid general tonic that always does good and does it quickly.
